

Snoop Dogg's Bible of Love

Rapper Calvin Broadus Jr., known as "Snoop Dogg," has released an album entitled Bible of Love.

Up until now, Snoop Dogg has been known for his lyrics about sex and drugs.

But the rapper's new music features songs such as "In the Name of Jesus," "Sunshine Feel Good," "Come As You Are," and "Blessed and Highly Favored."

While many have praised the project, others are speaking out against it.

Critics of the rapper's gospel work disapprove of Snoop's lifestyle. They say that his life has not shown fruit of his new faith.

Snoop has responded to the critics by saying that he "just wanted to make something to represent peace, love and happiness. You can't judge another man's faith. That's not love."

Discussion Questions

- Can Christians judge one another's faith?
- What would you say to those who declare a Christian's life must show the fruit of that person's faith? What does this fruit look like? Explain.
- Read John 14:15. When we know Jesus' love, what is our response to it?
- In the Second Commandment, God tells us not to use His name in vain. For example, if you call yourself a Christian, your calling is to live like a Christian. How do we break this commandment as God's followers? Give an example of someone who uses Christianity to boost his or her own authority.
